Engineering Work Alterations

November 2026 Updated 1/11/26

NATIONAL SUMMARY

Nothing to report at the time of posting.

ALL OPERATORS INCLUDING FREIGHTLINER

The reported service alterations below focus on railway corridors which are operated by class 90s for Freightliner, but these alterations also apply to other operators who do not use Class 90s too.

West Coast Main Line

- Sunday 8th November – intermodal diversions via Stone, Stoke and Alsager
- Monday 9th to Friday 13th inclusive – nighttime diversions via the West Midlands including Bescot for some intermodals. See RTT for more details.

There were no other known alterations to report on at the time of going to press. However, engineering work does take place on various sections of the WCML during the week and at weekends at short notice. It is advisable to check real-time data sources for specific trains on specific days just to be sure that the train you're looking for is a runner or is diverted.

East Anglia / GEML

There were no known alterations to report on for November at the time of going to press. However, engineering work does take place on various sections of the GEML during the week and at weekends at short notice. It is advisable to check real-time data sources for specific trains, on specific days just to be sure that the train you're looking for is a runner or is diverted.